

Time

If I want to tell about a life changing decisions, I don't need to go that back of my past. It's just seven months ago I took a decision that I will work like hell that It won't be a big deal if I work for even 20 long hours a day. It was in my mind that if they (successful people) can, so do I. So I did go for training, strengthen my technical skills such as programming, networking, database management etc along with the non-technical skills like presentation skills, communication skills and management skills. Those training gave me enough confidence and chances resulting as a life changing decision.

I never wanted to turn the time back. The mistakes done by me, gave me valuable knowledge. I learned through my mistakes. All I am today, a strong willed man, just because I have learned and overcome my faults and executed the lessons. I will always love to be in the straight timeline because time is a one way track. It never turns back and shouldn't do either. Time should run in it's own flow. The more the time will pass. the wiser, more practical and faultless I will become.

Hence, I can decide from the above discussion that time is the most valuable asset whether I am utilizing it to make a life changing decision or not willing to turn it back to erase my faults and letting me to learn properly. Time is the greatest among the teachers. Only time can teach certain things which can nobody. If we can't learn from time, we can learn from nowhere. The most wise use of time will make me the most successful person. Time is the greatest to invest in. Time is the least to be neglected. Thus, time is everything that human beings ever had.
